NOTE

THE Who's Who Year-Book is made up of the tables which were formerly such a popular feature in Who's Who itself. These tables were, in fact, the original nucleus of the book, which developed on different lines into a biographical annual. Thus, though the two books are now entirely distinct, there is an underlying connection, and additional details concerning all persons of eminence who are entered in the tables of the Year-Book will be found in Who's Who.

The Year-Book was issued in response to numerous suggestions and requests. In spite of the large number of reference books, there is still need for one where the information can be seen literally at a glance, and which includes not only the gist of information contained in many expensive publications, but some original tables to be found nowhere else. Under the last heading may be classed a list of Race meetings with dates of their fixtures and names of the Clerks of the Course, a table of London Theatres with their lessees and managers, and, among the new tables appearing for the first time in this edition, the degrees and colours of hoods of the various universities, a table of motor-car marks, a list of the Presidents of the Oxford and Cambridge Unions, British Members of the Legion of Honour, and the Members of the Royal Societies of Edinburgh and Canada. For corrections and additional information in regard to all matter appearing in the book, the editor and publishers are greatly obliged to the various secretaries, registrars, and other officials without whose aid it could never have been brought up to date. Any suggestions or criticisms which will help to make the book increasingly useful will be gratefully received.

A BOOK FOR SPORTSMEN

BRITISH DOGS AT WORK

By A. CROXTON SMITH

WITH 20 FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS IN COLOUR
AND 20 SMALL ILLUSTRATIONS IN LINE

By G. VERNON STOKES

SQUARE DEMY 8vo (9 × 6¼ INCHES), BOUND IN CLOTH, GILT TOP

PRICE 7/6 NET

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

THE enormous number of people who keep dogs, as proved by the licences taken out annually, is sufficient justification for the appearance of a volume that deals in a comprehensive manner with the breeding, management, and rearing of dogs. The book has been projected in such a way as to appeal to the one-dog man, or to those who may propose getting together a small kennel for sporting or exhibition purposes. It is therefore commendably free from technicalities, but, at the same time, its substance is sound, as the author, Mr. A. CROXTON SMITH, has, for many years, kept a large kennel of bloodhounds and bassets. He is also a member of the Kennel Club Committee. The volume is illustrated by a series of beautifully executed drawings in colour by Mr. G. VERNON STOKES, who has been most successful in showing the leading points of the varieties depicted. Brief notes describing the work and points of the various dogs accompany each drawing.

It may safely be asserted, without fear of contradiction, that the dainty water-colour drawings executed by Birket Foster appeal to the majority of the British public more than the works of any other artist. He produced scenes from nature with such exactness and minuteness of detail that the most uninitiated in art are able to understand and appreciate them, but the chief features in his paintings are the poetic feeling with which he endued them, and the care with which his compositions were selected. He revelled in sunny landscapes with roaming sheep and with rustic children playing in the foreground, and in the peaceful red-bricked cottages, with thatched roofs; it is, perhaps, by these scenes of rural England that Birket Foster is best known. He, however, was an indefatigable painter, and produced works selected from all parts of England, Wales, and Scotland; he travelled frequently on the Continent; Venice, as well as the Rhine, had its charms for him, and the picturesque scenery of Brittany has also been portrayed by his brush.

The collection of Birket Foster's drawings reproduced in this volume is thoroughly representative, and is sufficiently extensive to include all phases of his work. The accompanying biographical text by Mr. H. M. Cundall will be found to be most sympathetic, intimate, and interesting.

A detailed prospectus containing a specimen illustration will be sent on application.

The oft-recurring question, "What's wrong?" will be more easily answered in future if this volume is by one's side.

"No one could read it through without acquiring a large amount of sound information, not only in regard to the organs of the human body, their functions and the diseases to which they are liable, but also a good deal of learning in regard to such important matters as clothing, diet, exercise, sanitation, and ventilation. It is a thoroughly practical useful book, singularly complete, which should be welcome in many households."—Scotsman.

"This is a book which would prove useful from time to time in any household, and is moreover so well written—its prime merit that of clearness—as to furnish reading of an interesting character quite apart from the idea of turning the information to immediate use."—Guardian.

"Medical terms are arranged and explained in alphabetical order, and the details given are so practical and clearly put that it is a book we would strongly recommend to nurses. By having this book in the house the nurse need not be obliged to write to busy journals on simple medical matters, but in addition to finding the answer to occasional queries, we can confidently say that nurses will find this an admirable text-book for occasional study. . . . This book is the best seven-and-sixpence worth for a nurse that we have seen for some time past."—Nursing Times.

"It would be difficult to think of anything in medical terminology that is not indexed and sufficiently explained in this very compact, well-printed, and up-to-date volume of 850 pages. The descriptions are marvellously clear and detailed. . . . The illustrations are well selected and clearly printed. The Dictionary is altogether admirable, and will prove itself useful alike to the junior student, the nurse, the ship-captain, or such as cannot command expert attention in time of sickness or accident."—Glasgow Herald.

"The fact that this Medical Dictionary comes from a firm so well known as the publishers of Who's Who, and is uniform with that reliable and valuable work of reference, will be some guarantee of the genuine character of Black's Medical Dictionary. . . . We regard it as a practical and valuable work."—Sheffield Daily Independent.

NOTE

It is safe to say that two out of every three educated people have either written or attempted to write a book or a short story. The great army of the unpublished is ever seeking to force itself into the ranks of the published, and the continual cry is: "I don't know where to place my things." "The Writers' Year-Book" is designed to help this class; it contains in compact form no less than 600 addresses to which MSS. may be sent, with the names of the editors where possible, a general idea of the stories and articles wanted, the required length, and any other information which may lead to the much desired placing of literary work. And the book does not cater for writers only, but for all artists who can do good work with pen and brush, and who seek acceptance in magazines. These two classes are together so numerous that need of a year-book to supply their demand is obvious, and such a book appeals perhaps to a larger section of the public than any other year-book that could be issued.

PRESS OPINIONS

"The whole is eminently practical, and should save both editors and intending contributors much time and wasted labour."—Athenaeum.

"An admirable book of reference, designed in large measure to aid people who may take up the pen to dispose with advantage of what they may write."—Scotsman.

"Is one of the admirable and essential 'red books' for which busy literary workers now look annually."—Christian Commonwealth.

"To the journalistic free-lance, whether of the pen, pencil, or brush, it is absolutely an essential. The best thing of the kind ever published."—British Australasian.

"All litterateurs would do well to possess a copy. . . . The book gives the names and particulars of the current literature of the day, and writers and artists can see at a glance where the products of their pen and brush are likely to meet a market."—Border Magazine.
